Have you ever loved someone
And you weren't sure that they cared?
You never considered asking them
Because you were so scared.
Have you ever wanted to hug them
And hold them really tight?
But not sure that they'd like it
Even though it feels so right.
Have you ever loved someone
So much for them, you would die?
And to think that they don't care for you
Is enough to make you cry.
Have you ever loved someone
You would dream of them at night?
You'd awake and find that they're not there

And your heart would fill with fright.

For that someone you love to care

It would be a dream come true.

I wonder if you could love me

Half as much as I love you.
