

Not Going to Portus Club

by carley9

A short brunette joins the fray...

Music

Chapter 1 of 2

A short brunette joins the fray...

A/N: I decided to join in the fun :)

A short brunette slowly enters the bar that seemed to magically appear on the beach. The sounds of light and scattered laughter draw her in further. She looks around to take in the various scenes of debauchery. She smiles slightly to herself and looks at the bar.

At the moment there is no bartender. And no music. She walks to the jukebox in the corner. She flips through the music, looking for something to dance to. After giving a small, "Aha!" she slips a quarter in and "Virtual Insanity" starts playing. She begins dancing, getting funny glances from other patrons.

Dance

Chapter 2 of 2

A short brunette joins the fray...

Dance

Slowly dancing to the rhythm, she looks up to several people in various booths and at the bar. She smiles again and slowly dances up to the bar. As she bobs her head to the music, she looks up to see that a bartender has arrived. He grins roguishly at her and asks, "What will it be?"

She looks up at a list of drinks offered and says, "I'll have a Cherry Coke."

As the bartender looks at her confusedly, she gives a small laugh and points at the sign. Sure enough, there is a little Coca-Cola logo there.