

The Polyjuice Perpetrators

by sunny33

Impersonating others is never a good idea.

none

Chapter 1 of 1

Impersonating others is never a good idea.

Moaning Myrtle's bathroom was once again in use as a Polyjuice production facility. Those responsible for the potion's illicit manufacture had grave misdeeds planned. Brewing was synchronised to reach completion just as NEWTs began. A chapter of abuse of innocents and misdirection of minds was about to be unleashed. As the potion matured, the planning was finalised and the tasks allocated.

They were foiled by the resident know-it-all. She spotted the Polyjuiced theres in her essay, sneaking in where the theirs should be, and likewise the substitution of toos for tos. She was better than any beta at homonymicide.

A/N: A request by ravensblood inspired this drabble. Ladyinthecloak kindly betaed it.