

Click Your Fingers

by squirrelhappy121

Three looks at Hermione's life.

Click Your Fingers

Chapter 1 of 1

Three looks at Hermione's life.

When Hermione was a young girl, she had a cat named Crookshanks. Every night it would jump up on her bed and not allow her to fall asleep until it had been thoroughly scratched. Then, when she was nice and sleepy, and only wanted a warm lump of fur on her feet, it would jump down and leave the dormitory, tail high, in search of a mouse. Hermione would click her fingers for the longest time, but Crookshanks wouldn't return until the next night when it needed a face rub again.

When Hermione was older, she had a lover named Viktor Krum. Every night when Hermione was exhausted from her job, he would come and have her pleasure him. Whenever he was satisfied, he would pull out of her, and roll over onto her bed. A few minutes later, no matter how much she needed a pair of strong arms to fall asleep in, he would always leave. Hermione would click her fingers for the longest time, but Viktor wouldn't return until the next night when he needed sex again.

Now that Hermione has wizened up, she has a new lover named Severus Snape. Every morning when Hermione was bright and refreshed, they would wake up together and make love. He always made sure she was happy and satisfied, and that led her to make him happy and satisfied. After their coupling, he too would leave, but Hermione never had time to click her fingers. He would return shortly after with coffee and breakfast. She never had to click her fingers again.