

The Greasy Retriever

by karelia

Severus trains to be an Animagus and finally succeeds transforming.

~

Chapter 1 of 1

Severus trains to be an Animagus and finally succeeds transforming.

Disclaimer: I still don't own it. Even the prompt isn't mine.

Yessssss! The feeling of accomplishment washed over him in huge waves. Finally, after nearly three months of tough training, he felt himself Transform...

... and suddenly, he had not a care in the world. The human with the long, bushy hair looked positively delightful, and he felt an uncontrollable urge to jump up on her, to lick her nose, her cheeks, her lips, her irresistible neckline.

He followed his instinct and approached the human as fast as he could. She laughed in delight before landing hard on the floor.

"Ouch, Severus! Be gentle!"

He wagged his tail and licked her nose, her lips, her cheeks, her neck enthusiastically.

"Severus! Be gentle! I love seeing you happy, but this is a bit over the top. Can you transform back?" the human asked.

He did reluctantly and stretched himself once he returned to his human form.

"Hermione... What..." did he dare ask? "What did I transform into?"

Seeing her laugh, his face fell, and he scowled.

"Severus, don't fret. I think you look gorgeous! It really suits you!" she assured him.

He didn't bother to hide his impatience. "Hermione?" His voice was dangerously low.

She tried to suppress her laughter. "Severus, your Animagus form is a... Labrador."

PajamaPants' prompt: After the war, Severus trains to be an Animagus and finds out his form is a Labrador.

Grateful thanks to PajamaPants for the quick beta as well as coming up with the title.