Chapter 1 of 1

Hermione gets a tattoo.

'Shite, the room is spinning again. I should know better than to consume so much alcohol, but I had to do something. The pain is just intolerable! How could he think that I would ever willingly agree to have needles poke into my skin?' Hermione glared at Draco, as if expecting him to be able to answer for his godfather.

'Fuck. Granger, I told you that you would never win against Uncle Severus. He's clever and manipulative, and very few can outwit him.' Draco pushed his platinum blond hair out of his eyes as he continued to listen to the witch babble on about a small, magical tattoo.

'I didn't want a tattoo.'

'Well, it's kind of too late for that, Granger. So, what did he make you get,' Draco said with a barely concealed smirk on his face.

'He made me get a damn ouroboros.'

'I fail to see what is so bad about that,' he said with a chuckle. 'Where did you get it done at?'

'The name of the place...' Hermione was halted in mid sentence.

'Not the name of the tattoo joint, Granger. Honestly, I thought you were smarter than that. What body part did you get it done on?'

'Oh. I really don't want to tell you.'

'Come on, you know I won't bite... hard,' Draco murmured with a wink.

'Malfoy! You are not bringing your teeth anywhere near me!' Hermione said indignantly.

'Relax. Just drop your shorts and let me see.'

With a determined look in her eyes, Hermione slid her blue shorts over her slightly rounded hips and beckoned him forward.

Draco eyed her tattoo with a sort of lustful curiosity, but knew if he touched her in that way, his uncle would hex his balls off. He really couldn't see why she was complaining over such a tiny snake on the inside of her creamy thigh. Soon enough, he realised that not only did the snake appear to undulate sensually, but there was something written in miniscule script: Pride of Slytherin.

A/N: Prompt given by MomoDesu: Hermione gets a tattoo. What does she get, where does she get it, and why?
