

What You Did

by Musicmaker43

This is just a poem I wrote to get some anger and frustration out. it's about putting so much trust in someone and realizing they weren't who you thought they were. Even when so many people warned you that what you were in, wasn't good.

What You Did

Chapter 1 of 1

This is just a poem I wrote to get some anger and frustration out. it's about putting so much trust in someone and realizing they weren't who you thought they were. Even when so many people warned you that what you were in, wasn't good.

I told them what it is
You did to me
And they just
Happen to believe me
Too,
Do you know
How they will chase you down
Until they bring you down
They told me right from the Beginning that
You were wrong
And I never thought that I
Would say this but it's been so long
But it doesn't matter
Because they will bring you down

Yeah they will break you down

You better hold on tight

To your life

You're out of love

And out of luck

You won't take

Anything more because

I won't break

I'm stronger than you are

Well you told me

That everything would be

Just fine, and I,

I believed in

Everything you said

I didn't know

That you were so fake

Well this is getting so old

They will chew you up and then

Spit you out

Yeah they will call you out

So I never wanted to believe

Them, no I knew you

What I thought was true

But I was wrong and now

You're only ever going

To find me gone

And they will spit you out

And throw you all around

Now,

You better hold on tight

To your life

You're out of love

And out of luck

You won't take

Anything more because

I won't break

I'm stronger than you are

I told them what it is

You did to me

And they just

Happen to believe me

Too,

They told me not to play

Stay away

From you

Just look at what you did

To me

Now,

You better hold on tight

To your life

You're out of love

And out of luck

You won't take

Anything more because

I won't break

I'm stronger than you are