

Feather Brained?

by HermioneWeasley1972

The Marauders + Pillow Fight = Fun.

One shot

Chapter 1 of 1

The Marauders + Pillow Fight = Fun.

"Come on, Moony, don't you have anything better to do than to read that book?" James asked, rolling his eyes at his friend.

"Need I remind you that NEWTs are only two days away?" Remus looked up from his book briefly. "And tomorrow is the full moon."

"You know you're gonna ace them all," Sirius added. "You have the highest marks this year out of all of us." Sirius turned into his dog form and trotted over to his friend, nuzzling him and wagging his tail.

"Oh, don't give me that puppy dog eye routine, it's so old!" Remus rolled his eyes as Sirius got this goofy look on his face. "Honestly, don't you have any pride?"

"Maybe he's right, guys. After all, I need all the studying I can get." Peter looked from one of them to another.

"See? At least one of you has the good sense to see that we need to study."

Sirius turned back into his human form and exchanged a look with James. They grinned at one another and flicked their wands upward to launch pillows at both Peter and Remus.

The bombardment had been going on for several minutes when Remus picked up his wand, casually aimed it at his own pillow, and sent it flying over at James, all without looking up from his book.

"Just because I'm not looking doesn't mean that I'm not prepared. Now, give me a half hour more and maybe then I'll get involved."

It was clear to the three others who the winner of the pillow fight was.

For Lyn_f - The Marauders have a pillow fight. Who started it and who won?