Chapter 1 of 1

Remus does something he hates for the sake of his family.

"Remus, you don't have to do this. It's humiliating for you. It's degrading!" Tonks paced back and forth with her hands on her hips and her pregnant belly protruding out from under her cropped t-shirt.

"Tonks, you can't work as an Auror when you are pregnant, and with another baby on the way, we need the money. You know that I have to work someplace where they don't know what I am."

"Yes, but a horror movie? As a werewolf? You can't be happy doing that, Remus."

"I'm not, but it pays well. In fact, they said they never saw anyone who looked as wolfish as I do. They said that I had the part down pat, and that is why they gave me the lead." Remus laughed at his own dark humor.

"Tonks, when this picture is over, we won't ever have to worry about money again. Besides," he said, placing a tender hand on her stomach, "there's nothing I wouldn't do for my family." He kissed her tenderly, breaking it off all too soon.

"I guess this is what they call character casting." He kissed her one last time and gave Teddy a hug, then left his house to do a job he hated for the family he loved.

Prompt from SeverelyLupine

A witch or wizard of your choice takes part in making a Muggle film. (Could be anything -- actor, crew, extra, etc.)

A/N Was her idea for it to be Remus also. I just ran with it. Not my characters, just borrowing them. :)
