

Iced Emotions

by hrmny4etrnty2

This particular short poem was written in November of 2006. I was in the midst of my divorce and an old boyfriend entered back into my life.

Iced Emotions

Chapter 1 of 1

This particular short poem was written in November of 2006. I was in the midst of my divorce and an old boyfriend entered back into my life.

Old feelings are stirred within me
Like the romance happened only yesterday
I watch the autumn leaves drift from the trees
They fall to the ground as my heart falls into despair
So many chances we've had to do things right
So many chances we've let pass by
The air outside feels so cold
It's not cold enough to numb my pain
Will the winter chill be enough to ice my emotions?