

Hearing Voices

by HermioneWeasley1972

They were hearing voices on their wedding night.

One shot

Chapter 1 of 1

They were hearing voices on their wedding night.

"You looked absolutely breathtaking tonight, Mrs. Snape," Severus breathed in Hermione's ear as they entered their bedchambers. "Of course, it's my feeling that you look even more breathtaking when you are wearing nothing at all."

Hermione smiled and blushed. "Well, may I say that you looked very debonair in your tuxedo, Mr. Snape?" Hermione said, kissing him passionately on the lips. "So, shall we get our honeymoon started?"

"I think we should," Severus said, encircling his arms around his bride's body.

"Oh, wait," Hermione said. "Didn't we get a new wireless from someone for a gift? Maybe we could listen to some music to get us in the mood."

"I'm already in the mood," Severus countered, kissing her again.

"You know what I mean," she said, breaking away. "I'll be right back." She left the room and came back a minute later with the wireless. With a wave of her wand, she turned it on and romantic music came pouring out. "Now, wasn't that worth it?"

Severus responded by kissing her and slowly removing her wedding dress. The music lasted while they undressed one another and got into bed. Severus had just started trailing kisses down his wife's naked body when they heard:

"Congratulations to Severus Snape and Hermione Granger, who were married earlier today."

Hermione smiled up at Severus. "Well, that was nice that someone let the announcer know."

The music returned and they continued their private celebration.

"Someone's going to get lucky tonight!"

Severus' head snapped up and he looked around the room, but there was no one in there but them.

"Did you hear that?" he asked, looking at Hermione.

"Yeah," she responded, pulling the sheet up over her naked body.

"Hey! Try to hold it down in there! We're trying to sleep!"

"Okay, something strange is definitely going on. I'll be right back; lock the door behind me." Severus got up from the bed and pulled on his dressing gown, then left the room and closed the door behind him.

Hermione locked the door behind him and then went back to the bed.

"So tell me, what's he like in bed? Because I know you guys have had sex before tonight."

Hermione glared over at the wireless and realized that the voice was coming from it. She turned off the wireless and called to Severus. She would have to kill Fred and George later.

For silverdoo: Hermione and Severus get married and are given a tacky wedding gift. What is the gift and who gives it to them?