Chapter 1 of 1

Remus and Hermione are two bookworms with a child who is allergic to the smell of old books

Remus found his wife in their bed reading a book. Hermione's head shot up when she heard the door slam. She scooted over to her side to make room for her husband. He smiled at her as he slid under the covers, then sniffed the air and grinned. "Oh, I love the smell of old books. Too bad Lysander's allergic."

Hermione shook her head. "I know. Who would have thought? Two bookworms having a child who's allergic to the dust in old books. It's a shame really."

They kissed each other chastely, turned off the lights, and began to dream.
