You Know What They Say About Men's Noses

Chapter 1 of 1

Bella finally finds out what is under the Dark Lord's robes.

Finally! Finally, the man Bella had been lusting after for almost two decades was within her reach. She had always been most loyal to the cause, and today the Dark Lord was about to reward her and give her what she desired the most.

With her dark eyes glittering, Bella undid his robes and sank to her knees, licking her red lips hungrily. She did not even know how many nights she had fantasised about pleasuring her Lord, about having her mouth filled with his manhood. Now, she was finally about to taste him. Tonight, she would make him hers.

Bella gasped. She had not expected this. Instead of a mighty wand, there was ... nothing. The area between the Dark Lord's legs lacked a protrusion just like his face lacked a nose.

Disappointed and not knowing what to do, Bella sat back onto her heels. Her mind wandered back to a conversation she and Narcissa had had many years ago when they had been teenagers. They had been sitting on her bed, talking about men's noses and how the size of the nose was relative to the size of the wand. Snape had come up in this conversation.

'Damn!'
