

Cake Wreck

by Pennfana

Harry orders a cake. What he gets is not what he expected.

Cake Wreck

Chapter 1 of 1

Harry orders a cake. What he gets is not what he expected.

Harry took one look at the cake and sank down onto the nearest chair, putting his head in his hands. "This is a bloody disaster," he groaned.

Ron looked at the cake and burst out laughing.

"Really," Hermione said, "You should've realized that something like this might happen when you named your Quidditch team the 'Pennies,' you know."

"Percy insisted," said Harry weakly, regarding the disastrous dessert once again, hoping he hadn't really seen what he thought he'd seen. Unfortunately, the lettering on the cake still spelled this immensely regrettable phrase:

"GO, PENIS!"

Author's Notes: Blame the "Cake Wrecks" blog for this one. See <http://cakewrecks.blogspot.com/2009/11/sporty-spice-cakes.html> for details. The cake which spawned this bit of madness is the fifth one down, and it seems like everyone who looked at the photo thought that the cake (which is supposed to read "Go Pen's!" which is awful enough in itself, thanks to the misplaced apostrophe) said "Go Penis!" There was some speculation in the comments that it could be for a Quidditch team, since it featured an oddly-drawn broom. When I'd finally stopped laughing at the comments long enough for my weird little mind to start working again, this fic just sort of happened.