Chapter 1 of 1

Remember the famous old Carly Simon song, "You're So Vain"? What if it had been inspired by the bad-boy of Slytherin himself, Draco Malfoy? Here is a little Draco-Filk that explores the subject.

You walked up to the Dark Lord like you were burnin' to be seen.

Your hair strategically swept above one eye,

Your scarf was silver and green.

You had one arm out for marking as you posed just like a Queen.

And all the Death Eaters knew, "He's a Malfoy."

Knew, "He's a Malfoy!" And...

You're so vain,

You prob'ly think the books are about you!

You're so vain,

I bet you think the books are about you!

Don't you? Don't you?

Well, you've had me in a thousand fics

Though I am quite bourgeoisie,

Said you'd changed your ways and you would stay

You gave me your guarantee.

But you Crucio'd the ones you loved and one of them was me.

Since you've been gone, there's a sun in my tealeaves,

Sun in my tealeaves, And...

You're so vain,

You prob'ly think the books are about you!

You're so vain,

I bet you think the books are about you!

Don't you? Don't you?

Well, I heard you stood up on trial for your life,

Your gold and your bloodlines won.

Then you flew your new broom to the Tournament grounds,

'Cause you wouldn't be outdone.

Well you're in the spotlight all the time

And when you're not

Your with some Voldemort spy or a ghost in the bathroom

Ghost in the bathroom, And...

You're so vain,

You prob'ly think the books are about you!

You're so vain,

I bet you think the books are about you!

Don't you? Don't you?

(Repeat, fade out.)
