When the children play with Champagne...

Thanks to Melusin for the fast beta. This is set in the universe of Geneamorology, but it's not necessary to have read the fic.

"Severus, there's a bottle of Champagne missing!" Hermione screeched.

"What are you implying, dear wife?"

"Nothing," she answered distractedly. There was still so much to do before their guests arrived. "Where are Sabine and Julia?"

"Upstairs."

Hermione went off faster than Potter's Firebolt. Another screech informed Severus that she had found their daughters. After a while, she came back with an empty bottle of Champagne in her hand.

"The girls took the bottle," she explained.

Severus tried not to sound too worried. "Did they drink it?"

"No." Hermione snorted. "They made a bubble bath for their dolls with the Champagne."
