Songs of the Death Eaters

Chapter 1 of 1

A few songs taken from the Official Campfire Songbook of the Death Eaters.

Collected from Part One of the Official Campfire Songbook of the Death Eaters: contributors T. M. Riddle, L. Malfoy, B. Lestrangle, P. Pettigrew, S. Snape and Nagini (via T. M. Riddle).

1. Voldemort - tune of "Fires Burning"

Dark Mark burning, Dark Mark burning,

Draw nearer, draw nearer!

In the graveyard, in the graveyard,

Sing praise to the Dark Lord!

2. Lucius, Voldemort and Bellatrix- tune of "Fish and Chips and Vinegar"

Don't bring Nagini to my home, to my home, to my home!

Don't bring Nagini to my home—she'll eat my house-elf!

One Dark Lord's horcrux, two Dark Lord's horcrux,

Three Dark Lord's horcrux, four Dark Lord's horcrux!

Five Dark Lord's horcrux, six Dark Lord's horcrux,

Seven, Seven Dark Lord's horcrux!

Squibs, mudbloods and blood traitors, blood traitors, blood traitors!

Squibs, mudbloods and blood traitors, true abominations all!

3. Wormtail - tune of "Auntie Monica"

I have a Dark Lord, a Dark Lord Voldemort,

And when we disobey him, his temper's really short!
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so,
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so.
Oh, I have a Dark Lord, a Dark Lord Voldemort,
And when we disobey him, his temper's really short!
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so,
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so.
And so his mouth is moving, his mouth is moving so,
And so his mouth is moving, his mouth is moving so.
Oh, I have a Dark Lord, a Dark Lord Voldemort,
And when we disobey him, his temper's really short!
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so,
And so his wand is waving, his wand is waving so.
And so his mouth is moving, his mouth is moving so,
And so his mouth is moving, his mouth is moving so.
And so his curse is striking, his curse is striking so,
And so his curse is striking, his curse is striking so.
EEK!

4. Snape - tune of "There Was a Moose"

There was a teacher
Who would constantly glare and sneer.
Oh, there was a teacher
Who would constantly glare and sneer.
(Refrain)
Singin' oh,
Way-oh, way-oh, way-oh, way-oh,
Way-oh, way-oh,
Way-oh, way-oh, way-oh, way-oh.
The teacher's name was Snape;
To cross him was a big mistake.
The teacher's name was Snape;
To cross him was a big mistake.
(Refrain)
He had a piercing stare,
And a lot of greasy black hair.
He had a piercing stare,
And a lot of black greasy hair.
(Refrain)
Who said you had to be nice*
To be one of the real good guys?
Who said you had to be nice
To be one of the real good guys?
(Refrain)

This verse was not included in the actual songbook; it was discovered among the personal papers of Professor Snape following his unfortunate demise.*

5. Nagini - tune of "My Aunt Grete"

My Dark Lord, veeta veeta vord,
Had a snake, veeta veeta vake,

And that snake, veeta veeta vake, had a mouth;
And that mouth, veeta veeta vouth,
Had a fang, veeta veeta vang,
And that fang, veeta veeta vang, had a tip.
And that tip, veeta veeta vip, had a fang, veeta veeta vang,
And that fang, veeta veeta vang, had a mouth;
And that mouth, veeta veeta vouth, had a snake, veeta veeta vake,
And that snake, veeta veeta vake, loved to bite!

Author's Notes: Blame janus for these; they came from a prompt for the Saturday Night Drabbles—"A Death Eater sing along around the campfire, or equivalent location of your choice." All of these are songs I knew and loved when I was involved in Guiding, from Brownies all the way through Pathfinders. And believe me, there are many more where they come from. :)

I know that few of these may actually be amusing, but I hope they at least feel appropriate for the characters who are supposed to have written them.

Incidentally, although I've marked this as complete, I may or may not end up doing a second "chapter" eventually; I've had ideas for several other songs that will probably turn out well with a bit more work. And if anyone has any suggestions for further Death Eater campfire songs, I'll certainly consider them. :)
