

Under Line

by Ladymage Samiko

Ron and Harry go looking for Hermione, but when they find her, they rather wish they hadn't. For the GS100 'blanket' challenge.

Under Line

Chapter 1 of 1

Ron and Harry go looking for Hermione, but when they find her, they rather wish they hadn't. For the GS100 'blanket' challenge.

Hermione had some weird Muggle habits. Not cool habits, like Harry's DVDs, but random ones like drying laundry onlines behind her house.

"She's not inside," Harry remarked, rejoining Ron. "Think she's still out back?"

Ron shrugged. "Wanna look?"

Hermione was nowhere in sight. They trudged back to where she'd hung heavy blankets— including one that was swaying rather strangely. Glimpsing an arm, Ron beckoned.

The two halted abruptly.

A high-pitched squeal and giggle emerged, then a baritone chuckle and other, less coherent noises. From under the blanket extended two pairs of bare legs.

The boys, faces oddly green, fled.

ANs: Because the boys look better in green. There are some descriptors I should have liked to leave in, but, eh, that's the way the drabble dribbles. Oh, and that just engendered an evil plot bunny... wanders off to nurture bunny