

Mind Wanderlust

by WinterTwilight

Straying, but only in my mind.

Mind Wanderlust

Chapter 1 of 1

Straying, but only in my mind.

Ring on my finger, love in my heart
In my mind, however, something else
Lust for others, pulls from strangers
Wind arranging my hair reminds me
Of how their lips would feel on my neck
I watch their hands, and imagine
Them tracing a line down my spine
Parting the moisture of my sex
I can feel them making love to me
With only their eyes, that longing
Feels better than the reality ever could
So I never stray in my heart, I never love
Not like I love mine, but I desire Variety, but I'm satisfied that
In another life, we'd be together
And that's enough for me.