

ROCK ON!

by HermioneWeasley1972

Hermione shows Ron a new side of herself.

One shot

Chapter 1 of 1

Hermione shows Ron a new side of herself.

The war was over, and Hermione was determined to prove to Ron that she wasn't just the library-living, book-reading, hand-raising, constantly correcting, schedule-keeping know-it-all that he had gone to school with for six years. So she had come up with a plan to surprise him with when he came home.

First of all, she went to the Muggle music store and asked them for the most obnoxious rock music that they had. After her purchase of Queen's CD, she made her way to a trendy Muggle clothing store and bought stiletto leather boots and tight leather pants and a short cropped top that left little to the imagination. Finally, she went and picked up some accessories and some new makeup to replace her normal subtle shades.

When Ron arrived at their flat that evening, he opened the door to hear loud music blaring and see his fiancée dancing in some eye-popping clothes with her hair dyed purple and wearing some very strange jewelry that reminded him of spiked collars on dogs.

"Hermione?" he asked loudly.

She turned and smiled at him.

"ROCK ON!" He went over and danced alongside of her, not really wondering what had happened but not really caring. It was fun to see her hanging loose.