

The Sunset's Lament

by thelesbiantreefrog

A short original poem.

The Sunset's Lament

Chapter 1 of 1

A short original poem.

Through day's agony I flow sullenly,
For might not the sky again glow luscious with my fire?
Shall the ocean bathe once more in my ever fading light?
Ah, but my love dances to virtuous stars
And illuminates the glory of day's end.
As I shine like glistening dew drops,
I pass gloriously into night.