Chapter 1 of 1

Obsession comes under many guises.

He was completely besotted with her. Her luscious curves were enchanting, the feel of her body under his fingertips exhilarating, and that low-pitched purr when she was turned on sent a thrill down his spine. Most of all, he loved the way he could sink into her when the rest of his life was a living hell, turn on the heat, and then, with one final thrust, hit her sweet spot and send them both plummeting over the edge into oblivion.

David's friends never did understand why he chose to commit suicide by driving his beloved Porsche over the cliff.

A/N: I couldn't get this to go into the original section despite numerous tries. Any ideas, anyone?
