Dear writers of fanfiction,

Now that things have settled down and I have had some time to read your tales of what you think goes on in our world, I must say that I am very disappointed in you. Although your writing is quite good, I do believe that you have some of the facts quite askew.

First of all, the thing that disturbs me most is that the majority of you are under the delusion that I would give Severus Snape a second look, much less go to bed with him or pass over my best friend and the love of my life to marry my former Potions master. Allow me to put you straight right now. I love Ronald Weasley. I have loved him ever since our first year.

The second thing that disturbs me most is that in a lot of the stories that I have read, I am with him because Ron cheated on me or he physically or in another way abused me. I will have you know that Ron has never laid a hand on me and the only time that he was with another witch was when he was with Lavender Brown. We weren't even dating then, so that is not considered cheating. Heartbreaking, yes, but certainly not cheating.

In conclusion, I have to say that I do like your stories. I just prefer not to read the ones that have to do with me and a certain Potions master. And oh yes, he sent me an owl, and we had a good laugh over the thought that so many people would put the two of us together. Ron may be different, and he may not like books the way I do, but he is intelligent in his own way, and he makes my life fun.

So please keep writing, but also keep in mind that I will not read the stories which involve me and Professor Snape in anything but a business relationship.

Sincerely,

Hermione Weasley
