

A Ray of Sunshine?

by HermioneWeasley1972

Someone shows up to brighten her day, but some strange things seem to accompany the visit.

One shot

Chapter 1 of 1

Someone shows up to brighten her day, but some strange things seem to accompany the visit.

Dolores Umbridge was not in a good mood. Not only had she received an owl from the Ministry informing her that she no longer had a job but she found out that her favorite scent, Au De Nastiness had been discontinued from her owl order store.

Hearing a noise outside her door, she held out hope that maybe Argus had showed up for an afternoon tryst. When she had worked at Hogwarts for that year so many years ago, they had begun an affair. The things that he did to her....

When she opened the door, she found an adorable yellow kitten on her doorstep. Well, my day was certainly looking up! she thought to herself. Scooping the kitten up, she took it inside with her.

After giving it a dish of sardines and a bowl of water, she left her flat and made her way to Diagon Alley to buy the things that she would need for the kitten. She didn't know what she was going to name it. She just knew that she was going to love it even more than her cat plates.

When she returned to her flat, she opened the door and noticed a strange smell. She looked all around but couldn't find anything. The kitten hadn't had an accident anywhere. She checked on the kitten and found that it was sleeping, so she unpacked her things and went about her business, still wondering about that strange smell.

The next day, the smell was gone. She figured it had been something outside, perhaps, or maybe someone in an adjoining flat. After feeding the kitten, whom she had decided to name Sunshine since he had showed up on a dark day for her, she jumped in the shower.

When she came out, she found something else strange happening in her flat. Music was playing – loud, obnoxious music. She checked her wireless and it was off. She wasn't sure what was going on.

The rest of the week went on like this. The day after the music was ghostly apparitions that floated through the flat. Then there were explosions which happened in the middle of the night and woke her out of a sound sleep. But the final day which was what did it to her – images of centaurs which chased her all around the flat and wouldn't let her rest and writing on her hand which read I must not tell lies.

The next visitors to her flat were Medi wizards from St. Mungo's that came to take her away to the hospital, wrapped in a straight jacket and spouting complete gibberish. The only words that were discernible were centaurs, lies, and Sunshine.

In the confusion, no one noticed a small kitten slip out the door and run off. When he was out of sight of anyone, his form changed and the wizard Apparated back to a certain shop in Diagon Alley.

"Mission accomplished," he said, "Umbridge will be spending the rest of her miserable life in St. Mungo's."

"Perfect. Now we have gotten one more evil person off of the street and successfully tested our new line of products. Don't you love being undercover agents for the MLE?"

"You know it, clone."

Prompt from MuseAmusant: The cutest, most adorable little kitten turns up on Umbridge's doorstep and she is instantly smitten. Then some pretty strange things start happening.