

Clever Girl

by Anijade

A Needed Journey

Clever Girl

Chapter 1 of 1

A Needed Journey

She used to be such a clever girl,
But that was before, that was all gone
She used to hold the sun in her palm
But that has dimmed, faded away.
The shadows have claimed her, stolen her soul
They whisper and tease her, telling her lies
The darkness surrounds her, making her blind
It tells her, she lost never again found.
Moonlight is calling, seeking her out
Trying to show her, all is not lost
But she cannot hear it, the roar makes her deaf
The winds block her cries, and she covers her head.
The path is before her, but she cannot see
She closes her eyes, and lets out a scream
Then it is silent, she stands all alone
Lost in the darkness, she starts on her way.
The road is unbending, taking it's toll

She walks it unstopping, trying to find home

Into the sunlight, songs welcome her back

She used to be such a clever girl, now she is more.