The night had been a fun one. There was drinking, there was food, and there were some surprises and trying of new things. But finally the time had come. Finally the moment that they had been waiting for all night was about to happen. Sounds of anticipating and knowing smiles crossed their faces. It was finally going to happen. What had been attempted all night would finally come to pass.

A gasp was heard and a male voice said with strength and with happiness, "Draco at Gringotts with a peacock feather."

"Congratulations, Ron," Hermione said, smiling at her boyfriend. "I'm glad you won a round of Clue. Want to play again?"

Prompt from owl bait: Draco at Gringotts with a peacock feather
