

Fireworks Proposal

by Meladara

Severus takes a risk and opens his heart.

Fireworks Proposal

Chapter 1 of 1

Severus takes a risk and opens his heart.

The characters and canon situations in the following story belong solely to JK Rowling, Scholastic and WB. I am not making any money from the publishing or writing of this story.

A/N: This art/drabble combo was originally posted at the sshg newbies comm at LiveJournal as a gift for anoesis. The prompt was Fireworks. Thank you to linlawless and Laralee for keeping me in line. Love you, dears. I hope you all enjoy it. M~

---

Hermione stands in the cold night, the glowing New Year's fireworks bursting above.

She's the light in his darkness, the anchor in this storm, and has stood by him through thick and thin, never faltering or losing faith.

The doubt within his mind tells him he isn't good enough for her.

She assures him that it's alright that he is lost or broken or both.

Hermione doesn't mind that he cannot speak words of love aloud. His eyes tell her with each heated glance, she tells him.

However, tonight, Severus will change course and tell her exactly how he feels.

□