Severus Snape is tired. Incredibly tired.

Tired

Chapter 1 of 1

Severus Snape is tired. Incredibly tired.

With a sigh of relief, Severus closed his office door. Locked it, warded it, checked the enchantments twice.

Safety!

Against all odds, he had made it yet again. He had lived through explosions and held his breath through toxic fumes. He had avoided flying pieces of metal and poisonous fluids. He had survived it all.

But survival had come at a price. His face was ashen, the circles under his eyes dark. He looked tired. Incredibly tired. Now he needed sleep. Far too soon, a new term would begin and the students would return. Better be well-rested when they did.

A/N: It's been a while since I wrote fan fic, but when challenged to a drabble, I cannot say no. My prompt was the word "tired".

I'd like to dedicate those 100 words to all the teachers out there. Enjoy your summer!!
