The Nemesis

Chapter 1 of 1

A dastardly assassin, pursued by a certain wizard couple, runs into a... small problem. Includes a Respectfully Intended Cameo Appearance (x2).

Their first break came when he tripped over the corgi. The assassin stumbled and was 'encouraged' to fall by Severus's quick hex and Hermione's Incarcerous. The corgi, not to be ignored by this incredibly rude fellow, planted himself firmly atop the fallen wizard's solar plexus.

The little old lady sitting at a neat desk had looked up at the dog's yelp. "Is there something wrong?" she queried.

"No, ma'am," Severus assured her. "Nothing to worry about. Just a spot of... pest control." Hermione knelt to give the corgi an approving scratch.

"I see," the Queen replied sedately. "Carry on, then."

ANs: Corgi! I love corgis. Our Princess (RIJ) was one of the sweetest dogs, and my sister's 'Sushi Roll', is a delightfully pushy glutton. So here we have a foot-high nemesis of no (known) magical powers. Written for the GS100 'keep calm' challenge.
