For wand core hunters, the quest for four-leaf clovers was not without its personal inconveniences.

They stood before a vast, green field. "Pull the other one," said Hermione.

"I'm serious," replied Severus. "They're the catalyst for the potion used to graft dragon heartstring to redwood."

"There's no charm. We'll have to find them by hand," she lamented.

"Ollivander pays handsomely."

"I get hay fever."

"Thirty galleons a half-peck."

"A half-peck's worth of clover is still a lot of clover!"

"Think of the honeymoon we could afford."

Hermione sighed. "Give me that basket." She conjured two comfy lawn chairs. Severus smirked.
