

The Morning After

by broomclosetravenclaw

Lupin finds himself in a predicament.

One-Shot

Chapter 1 of 1

Lupin finds himself in a predicament.

Disclaimer: All of characters belongs to JKR et al.

A/N: Written for keladry_lupin, who made me write outside my usual ship. A 100-word drabble.

He laid at the edge of the forest, watching the dawn encircle him, the dew on the ground chilling him. His eyes gradually focused on his surroundings. He cautiously rose and began his journey home through the trees, finding his direction by the rising sun.

He would begin his search again tomorrow. The entire Order was looking for Snape, but Lupin was more desperate to find him than the others. He knew no one else who could brew Wolfsbane for him and stop his transformation at the full moon. He had twenty-eight days to find Snape before it happened again.