The air stilled around them that moment before the kiss.

Eyes darkening, lips parting, tongues subconsciously wetting lips, breath held, hearts racing, the empty space between them closing as their lips meet urgently, hard, demanding, until her lips give way to his tongue.

She moans into his mouth. His hands leave the intertwining of her hair to cup her breasts; his thumbs hardening her nipples. His lips trail down to her neck, and she finds herself biting her own lip.

He wastes no time thrusting into her e has wasted enough time in his life to get to this point.
