This fic is meant to be creepy/crappy. I don't own these characters, which is probably for the best.

Snape discreetly eyed Hermione from across the ballroom. 'Yesss...my little Hermione is nearing the cusp of womanhood,' he thought as he gazed upon her firm, nubile young body. Meanwhile Ron watched Harry caress Minerva. The two had finally succumbed to Albus' 'passion aura' and were unabashedly displaying their lust for all to see. Ron was frozen in place, unable to hold back the hectic blush that was creeping down the neck of his shirt, forced to restrain his secret longing to romp about in Harry's sloppy seconds. He whispered his encouragements to the copulating couple. "Oh yeah... take it all."
