Hermione and Severus decorate their Christmas tree with unexpected results.

AN: Much thanks to subversa and deemichelle for looking this over for me and for their encouragement.

"Just one more, right over here."

"No, Hermione, there are already too bloody many."

"According to you, one is too many."

"Nevertheless, there are too many."

"That's ridiculous. You can never have too many."

"Hermione, I'm telling you, it will not ... Don't pout, love. I guess one more won't hurt."

"There, you see? It's fine! Oh, isn't it beautiful? ... Oh, no. No! Catch it, Severus!"

Crash.

"I did try to warn you."

"How was I to know a tree could be felled by one too many ornaments? Well, this will be one Christmas we won't soon forget."

"Indeed."
