

'Curiouser and Curiouser' (Alice in Wonderland, Disney's 1951 Version)

by knotty cait

My very lose interpretation of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass" written by Lewis Carroll.

'Curiouser and Curiouser' (Alice in Wonderland, Disney's 1951 Version)

Chapter 1 of 1

My very lose interpretation of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass" written by Lewis Carroll.

awake yet dreaming dreaming yet awake the world the mad alice and i

alice follows the white rabbit i follow alice

we fall she fell then

i down the rabbit hole a well known occurrence

he is late the white rabbit he is late yet he has a pocket watch in his waistcoat pocket what is he late for it does not matter i am only a silent voice in a silent mind perhaps the mind of alice even

it does not matter
i follow alice
anyway i am drowning in her pool of tears
will i feel the passage of years no not as i am i do not dry in a caucus race nor am i an outsider among the mad i am invited to their tea party i find a friend in the hatter and have a half a cup if you do not mind i take part
the grin without the cat is normality
my roses are not to be painted red
they were uncoloured to begin with uncoloured they should stay i am missing a suit in my deck of cards it does not matter
i follow alice she will not win in animal croquet i follow alice she converse with a duchess i follow alice she is taken to see the mock turtle i follow alice she is called to court
more than a mile high an incompetent jury of pets
off with her
head is screeched
normality
a mere pack of cards only a pack of cards
awake yet dreaming
dreaming yet awake
the world the mad alice and i
alice follows
the white rabbit i follow alice we fall she fell then i