Severus makes a request of Hermione.

One and Only

Chapter 1 of 1

Severus makes a request of Hermione.

"Miss Granger, I have something to ask you."

"Alright, Professor, what can I do for you?"

Where to start... "Well, Miss Granger, we've known each other on a professional level for quite some time now. It was very kind of you to invite me to dinner with your parents. I'm afraid, though, I must ask you for something not related to your internship."

"Yes?" What is he getting at?

"I shouldn't be asking you for this so soon, but I really need it badly. I haven't had it for a while, and I can already feel it going in good and hard and coming out nice and soft."

"Professor!" Oh, Merlin, please tell me he isn't really asking for this. "I'm not quite sure that's appropriate."

"Hermione, if you would do this for me, no one would ever know. In fact, I'd appreciate if you didn't tell any of our colleagues; it could start nasty rumors."

"Sir, I'm very flattered that you would ask me, but I don't think I have what you're looking for."

"As the daughter of two professionals, I am sure you can satisfy my needs, and I'd be very grateful if you would; I wouldn't have asked you if I didn't think you would be able to."

"Professor Snape... I'd love to... help... you, but I'm just not sure where this will lead our professional relationship."

"Do not worry, Hermione. We will still maintain our professional relationship. This is a one-time request. I'm certain I'll be able to manage it myself in the future."

What sort of witch does he take me for? "Sir, I'm quite taken aback by this request..."

"I realize, of course, that you must think by now I have a lot of nerve, but I saw your parents having some, and it made me realize just how much I need it."

Hermione gasped. "You didn't!" Oh dear, oh dear...

"I did. So please, Hermione, do you have a piece of sugar-free mint gum?"

"Oh..."
