Severus lifted her foot, started rubbing it in firm motions. Hermione swooned among the piles of pillows in the four poster.

She loved watching him work. He was always completely focused what he was doing no matter what the task and nothing seemed to distract him.

She decided to test his mettle and started rubbing with her other foot the growing bulge between his legs.

He frowned and kept massaging her foot. She kept rubbing and started giggling. He growled. Stopped. Then pounced on her with Hermione's happy shrieks in his ears. He kissed her hard. He loved her.
