

The Sound Of Terror

by JustJeanette

The Sound Of Terror sung to The Sound Of Silence (3:08) by P. Simon, 1964

The Sound Of Terror

Chapter 1 of 1

The Sound Of Terror sung to The Sound Of Silence (3:08) by P. Simon, 1964

The Sound Of Terror sung to The Sound Of Silence (3:08) by P. Simon, 1964

Hello Voldie my old friend
I've come to curse with you again
For a Mudblood softly sneaking
Stole my wand while I was fleeing
And the howls that followed me caused me pain; they still remain
Within the sound of terror
In horrific dreams I walked alone
Down the willow path, a moan
In the halo of Lumos I cast
I raised my wand so fast
When my ears were stabbed by the howl of a Were in flight; he chased the night
And touched the sound of terror
And in the naked light I saw
Ten thousand teeth or maybe more
James a casting without speaking
James a hearing without listening

James a saving my soul as though he cared

No one dared

Disturb the sound of terror

"Fools," said I, "you do not know

Crucio's pain like a cancer grows

Hear my curse that I might hurt you

Take my hate that I might kill you"

But my words like silent raindrops fell

And echoed in the wells of Terror

And to Voldemort I bowed and prayed

To Morsmordre for I strayed

And the sign flashed out its warning

In the words that it was forming

And the sign said "The words of the prophets are written in crystal balls"

And Ministry Halls

And whispered in the sound of Terror

JustJeanette