

Choices

by firefly124

Having too many options can be a dangerous thing.

Choices

Chapter 1 of 1

Having too many options can be a dangerous thing.

Authors Notes: Thanks to Saracen77 for the Brit-picking and shopping assistance, to ubiquirk for the beta, and to Bambu345 for convincing me to stick my toe in the GS100 waters. This was written for the Grocery Shopping Challenge.

Disclaimer: Don't own 'em, just playing with 'em.

* * *

Snape scowled at the array of packages on the Sainsbury's shelf before him. It would not do to choose incorrectly. Hermione would not be pleased.

He at least remembered her preferred brand. That reduced his options. A bit.

They sorted the boxes by color, it seemed. He tried and failed to picture the one she'd had last month.

Sighing, he selected the box that had the widest assortment. It was almost certainly not what she wanted, but at least some of the contents would pacify her.

The clerk winked knowingly as she rang up the golden box of Lindor Assorted.

* * *