

I Kicked a Potato Because I'm a Know-It-All

by Katie616

Hermione is mad at Ron, and she goes outside and kicks some rocks around. She's not looking where she's going and accidentally kicks Hagrid's prize-winning potato from last year! SPLORT.

Drabble

Chapter 1 of 1

Hermione is mad at Ron, and she goes outside and kicks some rocks around. She's not looking where she's going and accidentally kicks Hagrid's prize-winning potato from last year! SPLORT.

Hogwarts' heavy front doors banged open, revealing an irate Hermione Granger.

'Ronald is so dense! Being intelligent doesn't make me a 'know-it-all!'

She wandered across the grounds, kicking small stones and dried grass, head hanging.

Unknowingly, she grumped her way down to Hagrid's hut and garden. A large, pitted shape hove into her limited view, and she aimed a vicious kick at it, imagining Ron's head in its place.

SPLORT.

"Urgh!"

Hermione was disgusted as she realized what she had just booted. Hagrid's huge prize-winning potato from last spring lay in disgusting rotted chunks around her sensible black school shoes.