One-shot Story

Chapter 1 of 1

Lucius needs to buy something at Narcissa's request.

This was written for the Potter Place Drabble Night this past Saturday. Prompt info at the end.

Lucius hurried into Hogsmeade. Narcissa had been very specific about the type of candlestick she'd needed, and he'd put off purchasing it until the last minute. Now, of course, it was nowhere to be found!

He had to have it! They were supposed to perform the sex ritual he'd seen in his wizarding Kama Sutra that called for black candle wax, but his wife needed a specific candlestick!

Suddenly, he saw it shining in the window of Warren's Wick's and rushed in to buy it. "Sorry, Mr. Malfoy. It's sold."

"No, it's not. It's sitting right there. I have to have it."

"I see. What's it worth to ya?"

Lucius sneered at the small, robust man. "One thousand Galleons."

Warren quickly grabbed the candlestick and wrapped it up for his best customer to take home.

As he was walking out to Apparate home, Lucius thought, I am going to make Cissy do pages six, twenty-four, and seventy-two for this!
