

Down in the Dungeons

by Southern_Witch_69

Lucius finds something in the Potions classroom.

One-shot Story

Chapter 1 of 1

Lucius finds something in the Potions classroom.

Lucius crept quietly through the dark corridors of the dungeons, knowing that he would find her in the Potions classroom. He'd overheard her laughing with her pathetic friends that she had yet another detention.

He was no fool. There was no detentions for her--what would a swot like that ever fail in? She'd never be disrespectful either. No, something else was going on, and he'd find out exactly what. He'd seen the way she'd looked at HIM in the Great Hall.

Pulling his wand from his sleeve, he peeked through the doorway and heard light laughter and a masculine grunt. "Aha," he muttered triumphantly, quickly going to the source of sound.

"So... now I know the truth of the matter," he said, taking in the way she fit perfectly into the dark-haired blighter's embrace. "Pull your knickers up!"

"Shite! What are you doing here, Malfoy?"

"How dare you follow me down here!"

Flashing his best sneer, Lucius coolly said, "Narcissa will be displeased to know that her sister is slagging around with the likes of a Tonks, Andromeda. Very unbecoming for a daughter from the house of Black. She will report to your parents straightaway. "

"It's my choice alone!" she said angrily.

"Now, see here, Malfoy--"

"And imagine Slughorn's disappointment that his classroom has been used for something such as this." He made a tsking noise. "I expect you'll have real detentions to complete very soon." He nodded toward the doorway. "Come along, Andromeda. Back to the Slytherin common room."

The sulking girl gave her lover one last look and quickly fled. Lucius then flicked his wand at the man. Pertificus Totalus! I'll leave you here as a gift for Professor Slughorn."

Written for ladyinthecloak during Potter Place's drabble night: Lucius, Potions class, spell.